Thinking Out Loud

By H. M. L.

The tide of public sentiment, we shall soon observe, is carrying us nearer to the whirlpool of war. We still maintain that we shall not reach its vortex, even though the U. S. Navy at this moment may be eliminating German pirates on the high seas. That is one of the historic functions of the navy.

Another upsurge of war feeling we think is caused directly by the German capture of the Russian city of Kiev, and what this probably portends. When the Russians successfully held the Germans for almost 13 weeks, a great many people began to think that perhaps the Russians would do the job that thus far Great Britain has been unable to do. As a result there was a decided slump in the all-out effort of the British, and a reflection of their optimism in this country. Now the old spur of desperation is rowelling the ribs of the jaded nag. From Washington comes fresh appeals for more energy, more steam, more production of war materials. And in Washington it would seem as if confusion were becoming worse confounded. Widespread strikes, a proposed law to put a ceiling on prices without reference to mounting labor costs, and, we note, in the Merry-Go-Round an accusation against some corporations that they are making as much as 208 per cent profit.

The Wilson administration did much better than the Roosevelt administration, in so far as establishing price, priority and production controls are concerned. Bernard Baruch headed war activities and did a good job. Hoover was made food controller and he did a good job. We now have a board of seven men headed by the visionary, Vice President Wallace, to reduce the present chaos to some semblance of order. The war effort is strangled with red tape and interdepartmental bickerings and feuds. The President retains every power congress granted him, and is physically unable to exercise them. No man born of woman could exercise them. He delegates no final say-so even to his favorites.

We are not so much concerned because the British leaders are finding fault with our methods, much talk and comparatively little production. After all that is our business. It is not our war to begin with, though it has become very much our war since the fall of France. But we can heartily resent the fact that we are being shown up as a nation of laggards. Every strike, every red tape delay, every brass-hatted stupidiy, every hour of wasteful waiting, and every display of presidential favoritism, makes the war last longer and runs its cost to tax payers into further billions. Of that every patriotic citizen has a right to complain.

For the first time in its history, a general has been appointed to pep up army morale. We do not know why this appointment had to be made. For we are certain that never before in the 150 years this country has maintained an army, the idvididual soldier had such good food, such good medical care, such comfortable clothing and billeting as he has today. But we surmise that these young soldiers, of whom must read and write, and all of whom can peruse the newspapers, isten to the radio, have their eyes fixed on the wretched spectacle in Washington They read in the newspapers that three of the President's sons have secured soft snaps in the armed forces, ornamental posts with good salaries. That kind of thing does not hedp morale.

Meet Tonight—

Two Local Youths Had Good Reason For Being Late

Ted Edinger, Jr., and Wendell Clark were five hours overdue from a deer hunting trip yesterday.

Worried relatives became hourly more anxious and just as authorities were nocified, the two local high school youths, put in their appearanc.e

They were delayed because Edinger bagged a nice buck and it took time to carry the animal out.

How To Care For Your Cut Flowers--Save For Future Flower Shows

The proper handling of cut flowers, Mrs. Paul Kemper, president of the Nevada City Garden Club, says, is of special interest to Nevada City flower growers at the present time because many local flower enthusiasts have entered their favorite blooms in the flower show, which will be held in Grass Valley Veterans Memorial Building in conjunction with the annual county fair.

So, through the courtesy of Mrs. Kemper, the following is printed.

All cut flowers should be placed in a deep pail filled with cool water, in a cool room, free from drafts, for about two hours. When you are ready to arrange them, strip the stems of foliage for at least four inches from

"Camp Far West" May Be Name Of Cantonment

Nevada County's recently formed board to supervise a drive for business expected to result from the establishment of a cantonment in Nevada and Yuba Counties, will meet tomorrow night in Grass Valley.

One matter to be discussed will be the Wheatland Chamber of Commerce's suggestion of a name for the cantonment.

The Wheatland Chamber, recently organized, suggested the camp be named "Far West." It is possible the Nevada County group will endorse the proposal.

Camp Far West is a historic name, one linked with the early days of California.

Camp Far West was established by the United States government as a military post nearly a year subsequent to the discovery of gold by James Wilson Marshall. Its site was about four miles east of Wheatland. A log fort was erected and barracks and camp buildings were established to anticipate Indian uprisings.

The post first was occupied by a detachment of 2nd United States Infantry under Captain Hannibal Day. At times three or four companies of soldiers were held there under emergencies

Major McKinstry, later an officer in the Civil War, often came to Camp Far West.

Quieted Indian Uprisings

The most important military duty branching from the camp was the quieting of the unrest among thousands of Indians of the foothills, which resulted during the spring of 1850, in the sacking of the Holt Brothers sawmill in the Forest Spring Section, the killing of Samuel Holt and the wounding of George Holt. The Wheeler-Walsh mills in the same vicinity were barricaded and Grass Valley was deemed in danger.

The news of the uprising was sent by messenger from Rough and Ready to Camp Far West, and the resultant military movements caused a great furor in the new state, repercussions being heard in both state and national capitals. During those so designated Indian war days soldier camps were maintained at various points in the lower foothills.

The post was abandoned in May, 1852. In the meantime, Indian reservations had been established in California and Nevada County hostilities as represented by Chief Wemeh, temporarily were deported.

Roy G. Deeter And Helen Yuen Give Vivid Addresses On Women's Part In Present War

By DOROTHY THOMAS

Horns of plenty spilling autumn fruit, flowers and vegetables decorated the tables at the Business and Professional Women's Club meeting at the National Hotel last evening.

The International Relations Committee, composed of Hilda Risley, Isabel Heffelfinger, Alberta and Eleanor Bolton were hostesses for the 60 Business and Professional Women from Nevada City and Grass Valley and guests who gathered to honor Ethel Bornefeld of Chico, Northern District President. Dixie Rose, vice president of the local organization, welcomed the group.

Mrs. Roy Deeter of Glenwood gave a very interesting talk on what women were accomplishing in England during the present emergency. She said in part that even though there is no fingernail polish and little lipstick available and no time for beauty parlors, women are still keeping up their appearances.

Women from 16 to 60 have undertaken all jobs men handled before. They do all farm labor, mechanical work of all kinds and man anti-aircraft units. Mrs. Deeter passed to those present some envelopes from England to show the censor stamp and it was also very interesting to note that on both sides of the letter large "V's" were visible. Mrs. Deeter closed her very interesting discussion with "Thumbs up, there will always be an England."

Mrs. Risleyread a short poem, "The Beautiful Life". Genevieve Elliott sang "A Chinese Lullaby". Bill Tobiassen accompanied by Ruth Libbey, sang, "Dark Eyes' and "America, I Love You."

Helen Yuen discussed conditions in China. She said that China is now stronger than it has ever been. It is building from within. Chinese from all over the world are helping to make China a stronger nation. Women in China today are doing more than women have ever done in Chinas long history. They fight along with the regular army and do all kinds of mechanical work.

Northern District President Ethel Bornefeld gave her semi-annual report to the group. She told of an attempt to organize a BPWC Chapter in Mexico. She said that American citizens born in this country did not appreciate their citizenship as much as those who were not so fortunate to be born here. Citizenship is not a matter of birth, it is a matter of spirit, she said.

Genevieve Elliott sang a solo at the close of the meeting, which was presided over by President Ethel White.

Alice J. Browne, Northern District Corresponding Secretary accompanied Miss Bornefeld to this city for the meeting. Among those who attended from Grass Valley were President Thelma Sahl and First Vice President Marie Williford of the Northern District.

"Refugee" Deer Finds Way Into Garden At Home Of Tom White

A nice fat buck, apparently seeking succor from the constant fire of huntsmen's guns, came down Boulder Street and took temporary refuge in the yard of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas White.

The buck didn't stay long, however. Maybe he didn't like the gleam in Tom White's eyes. He walked out the back end of the yard down to Deer Creek.

It was recalled as a result of this week's episode, that a deer ran down Broad Street several years ago. At that time the deer were forced out of the higher country by the heavy snows.

Watt Will Settlement Is Reached

Litigation in the state of the late Mrs. Alison Watt came to an end yesterday afternoon when a settlement was announced at the time the matter came up before Superior Judge Warren Steel for the setting of a date for a new trial.

In July a jury failed to reach a verdict and was dismissed.

It was reported Robert Finnie, a brother, who contested the will of Mrs. Watt, will receive $9,500 from the estate, which is valued at $43,700.

Under the terms of Mrs. Watt's will, Daniel C. Stewart, retired Pacific Gas and Electric Company manager and his wife, Mary Stewart, are to receive the bulk of the state. Bequests are also made to other friends and $500 awarded to Laurel Parlor Native Daughters of the Golden West of this city. Will admitted to probate. Stewart named executor without bond.

ROTARY ANNS TAKE OVER CLUB PROGRAM TODAY

Rotary Anns were guests of the Rotary club at luncheon in the National Hotel this noon. They took immediate charge of the program and members voted the luncheon one of the best in many moons. Mrs. Kjorlie as wife of the club's president presided. The Rotary Anns who are members of the Civic club presented their skit: "Bathing Beauties of the Gay Nineties" and won uproarious applause.

On entering the dining room each man was expected to locate his wife. This was difficult to do because the women were wearing masks, and few of the men could remember what their wives gowns looked like.

Mrs. Belle Douglas was the guest speaker. As the daughter of Nevada City's first newspaper publisher she had gathered her materials from the files of her father's journal. She kept her audience in an uproar by reading the comic incidents and advertisements of the fifties and sixties.

Trial Date For Rex Christie Reset Yesterday

Rex Christie, charged with robbery, a felony, will go on trial in the superior court here on October 21st.

The date of Christie's trial was reset in the superior court here yesterday. Christie originally had been scheduled to go on trial next week. Harry McKee is his attorney.

Christie is accused of breaking into the Beues home on the Murchie Road last July and stealing $100 along with other articles.

Hunter Found—

A search was made yesterday for a hunter named Loge from Marysvile. He returned however, and said he had remained overnight at Lake Fordyce. He had walked too far and could not return to his camp before dark so he sensibly decided to stay overnight at Fordyce and make the trip back the following day.

MIGHT STILL ISN'T RIGHT!

Dr. Hans Keller, one of Hitler's satellites, in an argument distributed by the German High Command, declares there is "no hope that Germany, after defeating her opponents, will resurrect all those states which the storm of war has swept away." The new order in Europe, he asserts, can only be a German order.

Says this spokesman for the Nazi regime:

"The essence of a state is might. Either one has might, or one hasn't. In the latter case it is small consolation to have a well-founded right to might. It is solely up to the Fuehrer to determine what measure of power he will give back to the peoples within the German reach. He alone is responsible for this decision before his conscience as a German and thereby as a European. Whether his gift to these peoples will be a "state" or perhaps an "order" is secondary in importance, once there is clarity concerning the nature of a state and its relationship to its peoples."

We are indebted to Hans Keller for this plain-spoken definition of Nazi purposes and objectives. There is nothing new about it, but there is much that is revolting about it. Here we have stated, once again, the ancient, discredited creed that Might Is Right. That creed has brought more sorrow to the world we live in than any other ever ventured. If we needed any spur to our defense program—to our program of aid to Britain and all the other countries fighting Hitlerism—this revealing statement should provide it. In America, we still believe in human rights; we still believe that right is mightier than might. That, is seems, is the issue. Contributed.

YOU CAN'T SHOOT LIBERTY

The headlines read: "Ten Frenchmen Guillotined;" "Three More German Officers Shot"; "Nazi Firing Squads Kill 20!" And still no German soldier walks the streets of France without fear of a bullet in his back. Why? Perhaps because Hitler hasn't yet learned that you can't shoot liberty. You can't kill. in men, their love of freedom, the dignity which makes them akin to God. Hostages may be led out to have their heads chopped off under the knife. Other hostages may be stood up against walls to wait the blast of the firing squad. But somewhere in France there are still freemen who can't be silenced nor suppressed, either by the guillotine or gunfire. The Germans haven't learned. that simple lesson yet. You can't shoot liberty!—Contributed.

IS LIFE JUST "PLEASURE"?

Secretary Ickes in his new and beloved role as oil czar for the United States has made a good many statements which indicate he believes the use of motor fuel is mostly for pleasure, and we ought to kick it out. Some pleasure use exists, but most motor fuel is for necessities.

"Necessity" driving, ranging from huge trucks to the family jaloppy carrying the breadwinner to and from a local aircraft factory, accounts for 75 per cent of all motor fuel used in the United States, according to a survey conducted by the Automobile Manufacturers association.

This is particularly true in Southern California where the basic mass transportation system was declared inadequate for the area and its population as far back as 1910. The automobile does what a subway system ought to do for people. and trucks take care of the heavy hauling.

Just as the peculiar. but always interesting, views of Ickes once again show the rest of the world out of step with our Harold, so too do the advocates of higher taxes on oil products reveal themselves as advocates of a tax on the necessities of living—whether the tax is designed for federal, state or even county relief use.

The automobile owner is today the most heavily taxed individual in the nation, with the single erception of the high income group with the surtaxes of the ncome tax laws. Every political subdivision in the nation eyes the rich plucking of the motorists' money with a greedy gleam.

The fact that the taxes on cars and on oil have not reduced the use of both in this country—as high taxes have kept the common family from car ownership in England, for instance—is further proof that most driving is necessity driving in this country, and not pleasure driving as such.

The local family can do without the Sunday picnic drive, to save the cost of gasoline and oil, or in the east to conserve the fuel for tanker shortage conditions. But the head of the family must get to his job, and only a negligible proportion lives within walking distance of the job, and only a minority, in these defense factory days, has good street car or bus connections to new plants.

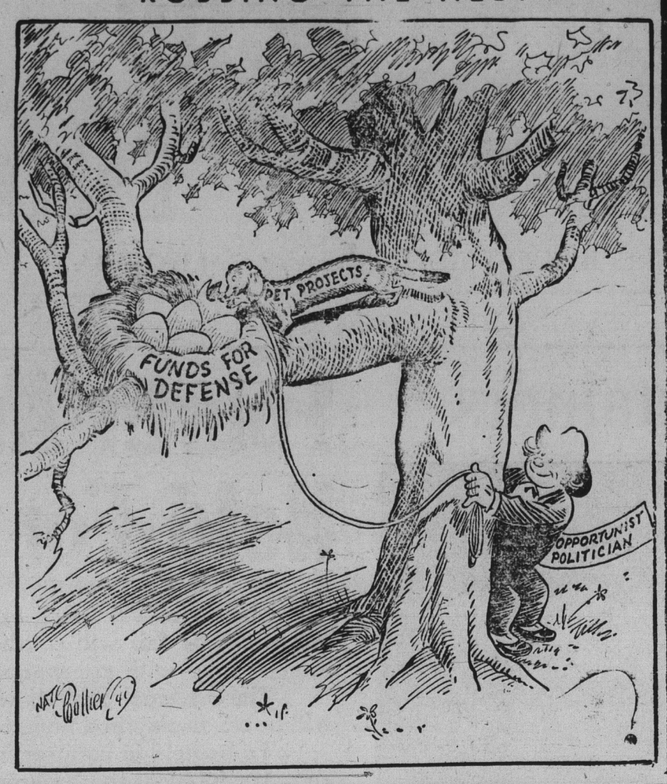
So it is that every new penny of tax on oil and gasoline. or on tires and automobiles, is a direct tax on the living standards of the average family of the nation's metropolitan areas.

The survey, mentioned above, shows that 96 per cent of the 26,000,000 passenger automobiles of this nation are used for necessity purposes, and that 11,000,000 people live in 2100 communities, without other means of transportation.

Also, 70 per cent of the non-agricultural workers of this nation use their automobiles to get to and from their places of employment—a ratio that is probably lower than the new conditions of defense plant locations has brought about, particularly here in this district.

Even the agricultural areas show that 98.4 per cent of the farm family cars are used partly or totally for business and necessity purposes. Two-thirds of the farm families of the nation today could not get to their present supply points without cars.

ROBBING THE NEST



JUST WONDERIN'

I wonder if the Corsican
Stands now beside the road he covered,
Remembering the lowering clouds
That over his sad journey hovered,
And as he sees the "Aryan" tribe
Strive for the goal and fate forbid it,
Does he then smile his twisted smile
And mutter to himself, "I did it?"

I wonder if asbestos extras containing news from the upper world, are circulated in the realms of Pluto and if Napoleon reads them.

Napoleon had a half million men, more or less, and he marched them up to Moscow and marched them home again. He rode a horse. Hitler has tanks, bombing planes and any number of men whose lives are seemingly of no value in his sight. he has his own air raid shelter and all other sorts of safe guards thrown about him. Napoleon made Moscow in eighty days plus, and Hitler after more than eighty days is still on his way.

I wonder if a certain young man has thrown discretion to the winds. In a recent exhibition of uncontrolled oratory, we heard a familiar battle cry: "The British, the Jews, the Roosevelt administration!" The voice was Lindbergh's but the words were Hitler's. Strange that this Nazi appeal to ignorance, superstition and intolerance, should have been cheered to the echo by a supposedly American audience, but such was the case; which goes to show, that anything can happen here and that the price of liberty is still eternal vigilance.

Uncle Sam may now publish an ad., reading as follows: For sale, a pedestal just vacated by one who having gained the heights of popular acclaim, stepped down for reasons best known to himself.

We are witnessing a startling spectacle in this transformation of the Lone Eagle into a gregarious wolf intent upon leading a pack. Can this be black magic? As for me, after warning all of my friends and asking them not to join the pack, I shall turn my attention to the contemplation of more pleasing sights. Still just in passing, I should like to know who writes Mr. Lindbergh's script and who translates it into English.

I wonder when our worthy investigators of this and that, will focus their attention upon public libraries. During the past three or four years, great masses of propaganda have been published in book form and placed upon library shelves. This fact should not be ignored by the busy guardians of our mental health and sanity. Investigators will not be obliged to read the suspicious books, simply furnish them with a few suggestive titles and their remarkable intuition will hasten to do its perfect work. A wonderful thing—intuition.

Uncle Silas says: "Maybe the name of that organization calling itself America First, should be changed to America Worst." —A. Merriam Conner.

"WILD GEESE CALLING" COMING HERE SUNDAY

With all the thundering drama of the great Northwest, Stewart Edward White's best selling adventure novel, "Wild Geese Calling" comes to the screen of the Nevada Theatre on Sunday.

Henry Fonda, as the two fisted lumberpack and Joan Bennett, as the dance hall queen have the leading roles in the story of two people together fighting the fury of a great primitive country.

This new 20th Century Fox film follows the drifting progress of lumberjack Fonda, who is gripped by wanderlust. Searching for his friend Warren Williams, he meets and marries Joan Bennett, a dancer in a tough waterfront saloon.

Their advantures enroute to Alaska are heightened by the realization that Joan and Warren are former sweethearts. Amid the wilds of Alaska, 'Wild Geese Calling" builds swiftly to its smashing climax.

Preview audiences have hailed Henry Fonda's performance as the rugged, two fisted lumberjack the equal of his superb portrayal of Tom Joad in "The Grapes of Wrath." And Joan Bennetts' characterization of the hardened dance hall queen with a past has been called even greater than her performance in "Man Hunt". They make a grand couple as they fight to live their own lives in the engrossing adventure film.

The novel was awarded the annual Gold Medal of the Commonwealth Club of California for the outstanding work published by a writer of that state in 1940 during the filming of the picture.

The next time a spell-binder advocates more taxes on the American car-using family, just think what it will mean to your own pocketbook in a year's time. —Culver City Star-News.

REPUBLICAN LEADER TO VISIT CALIFORNIA

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 25.—Representative Joseph W. Martin, Jr., chairman of the Republican National Committee and Republican Leader of the House of Represenatives, arrives in Los Angeles tomorrow for a three day visit during which he will hold a series of conferences with California Republican leaders.

Martin will be accompanied by Henry P. Fletcher, general counsel and former chairman of the Republican National Committee. Fletcher is one of the country's outstanding diplomats, having represented the United States as American Ambassador in a number of countries.

The Republican chairman will remain in Los Angeles until Wednesday night. He will consult with a number of Southern and Central California Republican leaders, in addition to making several talks to larger gatherings. Martin is scheduled to spend Thursday in Oakland, Berkeley and San Francisco, where he will meet with other Central and Northern California party leaders.

Martin's visit to California is one of a series he is making in various parts of the country to meet with party leaders and workers for the purpose of launching a nationwide movement to revitalize the Republican Party for next year's elections. In addition to stimulating state and local organizations to renewed activity, the chairman is represented as particularly anxious to get the viewpoints of local Republican leaders concerning the crisis confronting the country.

TAX BURDEN OF STATE BILLION AND HALF, 1943

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 25.—California's taxpayers during the fiscal year 1940-41 paid well in excess of a billion dollars into the treasuries of federal, state, and local governments. The grand total, in fact, as reported by the Tax Department of the California State Chamber of Commerce, was $1,077,099,837.

These tax payments, the state chamber points out, do not include California's share of the $3,500,000,000 tax bill, just passed by congress, which is estimated as $240,000,000 per year. Nor do they reflect the two defense tax measures enacted in 1940.

By the end of 1943 it is computed that total federal tax collections in California under existing law will exceed $700,000,000 annually. With the upward trend of tax yields, resulting from the effect of defense spending on business, together with posible further increases in federal taxes, it is predicted that California's over all tax burden may soon approach $1,500,000,000 per year.

This mounting tax bill, the state chamber pointed out, represents an increase of $127,821,535 over the preceding year; and is $627,690,165 more than was collected in the fiscal year 1932-33. Federal collections in California have increased from $94,674,184 in 1932-33 to $405,677,402 in 1940-41. In this same period, the state tax collections increased from $90,879,770 to $360,822,435; and local property taxes increased from $263,855,718 to $310,500,000, notwithstanding the transfer of $40,000,000 annually, in school costs from the counties to the state, beginning in 1933-34

U. S. PLANES ARE CONVERTIBLE TO NIGHT FIGHTERS

By DON WILEY

Why hasn't the United States Army developed a warplane designed exclusively for night fighting?

That inquiry popped out of our mail the other day, posed by a correspondent who pointed out that apparently Great Britain is the only nation that has perfected a ship whose primary function is to intercept enemy raiders after darkness. The questioner, of course, was alluding to the new Beaufighters which recently went into service with the Royal Air Force.

There are several answers to the question.

One rests on our geographical osition, which makes us far less vulnerable to night bombing attacks than are the nations of crowded Europe.

SUBSTITUES

Another lies in fact that the U. S. Army Air Forces already possess several types which can be converted into night fighters. An excellent example is the Douglas A-20A light bomber. The British discovered that the exort version—the DB-7—made a wonderful night fighter with a few not too difficult alterations.

But geographical position and conversion possibilities notwithstanding our Air Corps appears to be on the alert to this new development of aerial warfare, for we understand that it is in the process of developing a night fighter which will top anything the world has ever seen.

The night fighter trend in Britain has been to large (light bomber size) ships with two engines and plenty of speed—aircraft that can carry an amazing number of guns.

BIG SHIPS HAVE RANGE

True, the RAF has pressed single engine Hurricane fighters into this service, but their limited range restricts them to the protection of relatively small areas in the Britisn Isles, whereas bigger ships like the DB-7's (christened Havocs) can and do carry Britain's defense right into enemy territory by smashing Nazi bombing within shooting distance of their own home fields.

Equally as important as speed, range and firepower in a night-fighter is ability to operate from wartime landing fields at night. And here the tricycle landing gear of the Havoc (found also on other American built aircraft, such as the Lockheed Lightning and Bell Airacobra fighters, the Martin B-26 and the North American B-25 medium and light bombers and the Consolidated B-24 heavy bomber) has proved of exceptional worth.

For some reason, the British have not seen fit to equip the new Beaufighters with tricycle gear.

The Beaufighter, a two place ship, was developed from the Beaufighter torpedo bomber, which it somewhat resembles, exceut for a shorter nose. Its armament is exceptionally heavy—four 20 mm. shell guns in the nose and six machine guns in the wings—firepower sufficient to blast the most strongy armored bomber out of the sky.

SLOWER THAN U. S. PLANE

The power plants are two Bristol Hercules radial engines which give the Beaufighter a maximum speed of 330 miles per hour at 14,500 feet and a range of approximately 1500 miles. The ship has a wing span of 57 feet, a length of 41 feet and a gross weight of 21,000 pounds.

The Beaufighter is about the same size as the Havoc, but is somewhat slower than that very swift American airplane. No information has been released on the Havoc's armament, but it probably equals that of the Beaufighter, for we know that the British have altered the nose of the American ship, eliminating the bombardier's station in order to install heavy shell guns there.

THIS WEEK in DEFENSE

British Foreign Minister Eden informed the United States all materials received by Great Britain under the Lend-Lease Act were used exclusively for war purposes and that none is being diverted to private channels. Secretary of State Hull said there had been some misunderstanding about British exports and the message explained what the two governments are undertaking to do cooperatively.

Federal Security Administrator McNutt said the U. S. Employment service plans to seek several thousand American specialists between 19 and 50 for employment by the British Civilian Technical Corps as radio and automobile mechanics, electrical wiremen, instrument repairers, metal workers and other technical tradesmen ,for service in England repairing vital equipment used by the British armed forces. McNutt said men needed for national defense jobs in this country will not be accepted but selective service headquarters have authorized local draft boards to grant deferment in Class IIB for men joining the C. T. C.

The Commodity Credit Corporation made available for Lend-Lease operations in the past two weeks 100,130 bales of cotton and 1,345,000 bushes of corn. The Red Cross announced it will send a delegation to Russia to study and report on most urgent needs in that country and how to meet them.

SHIPS BUILT

The Maritime Commission announced the largest mass launching of ships since the World War will take place September 27 when 12 ships slide down the ways. Four other new merchant ships in the 500-ship long-range program are being delivered to operators between September 11 and September 19, making a total of 110 vessels completed under the program. The Navy Department announced launchings of two cruisers and one minesweeper. The Maritime Commission said to meet increased demand for officers in the merchant marine it has opened competitive examinations for cadet appointments. Applications must be submitted to the commission before November 8.

ARMY SAFETY

The War Department estimated that, despite rigors of field maneuvers this fall, there will be a considerably lower accident and death rate for the 752,000 troops participating than for a corresponding number of civilians. The estimate predicted 236 deaths and 40,000 admissions to the hospitals for disease and injury.

AIR

Assistant War Secretary for Air Lovett told the press Army war games will provide a preview of the "worlds" finest" military aircraft but "in point of quantity, we still have a long way to go" although "production is now beginning to roll and should enable us to equip combat units—one squadron every other day."

The Air Corps announced it is testing a new four engine flying fortress which is bigger and has more fire power than models now in use by the U. S. and Great Britain.

OIL, GASOLINE

The Special Senate Committee investigating the oil situation said the only shortage of petroleum products or of transportation facilities "is a 'shortage' in a large surplus which is desired." Acting Oil Coordinator Davies issued a statement saying. "the admittedly low condition of petroleum stocks on the east coast continues to mean shortage—(and) the necessity for public cooperation continues." SPAB refused to grant priorities on steel plates for construction of a 1,500 mile petroleum pipeline from Texas to New York. Davies said the Southeastern pipeline between Port St. Joe, Fla., and Chattanooga, Tenn., will deliver 1,260,000 gallons of gasoline and the other petroleum products daily to Georgia and Tennessee within sixty days.

PRICES, INFLATION CONTROL

The Labor Department announced retail food prices are at the highest level in ten years—12.3 per cent higher than a year ago. Treasury Secretary Morgenthau, speaking in Boston, said "'Inflation is no longer distant—We are facing it and—if we are selfish and short sighted—the consequences may haunt us and our children for years, but if we look at the problem with firm resolve we can beat this thing."

Mr. Morgenthau said control of consumer installment credit, purchase of defense bonds and stamps and tax anticipation notes are not enough to prevent consumer purchasing power from forcing prices up. He suggested extension and increase of social security benefits, an unemployment compensation "wage" for the workers and reduction in non-essential expenditures in federal, state and local governments. He also suggested release of government held surplus stocks of food to hold down down food prices.

PRIORITIES

Priorities Director Nelson made mandatory all priority ratings, issued ratings to assure civil air lines continued operation at high efficiency and to give assistance to 20 essential industries in obtaining repair materials.

PRIORITY UNEMPLOYMENT

The Bureau of Employment Security and representatives of the OPM Contract Distribution Division and Labor Division began a nation wide survey to find jobs for workers laid off because of production curtailment due to shortages and diversion of materials to defense.

NEW PLANTS

The Defense Plant Corporation and the War Department authorized and awarded contracts for construction of six aluminum magnesium and ordnance plants, totaling $94,579,000. OPM recommended to the War Department construction of an aluminum plant at Troutdale, Ore., to produce 90,000,000 pounds annually.

FARMING OUT

Acting Navy Secretary Forrestal announced creation of the Naval Contracts Distribution Division to cooperate with the OPM in speeding up production by using facilities of small plants and employees whose industries are threatened by shutdown or dislocation because of the priorities. Under-secretary of War Patterson directed the army's 815 purchasing offices to bring more of the nation's industrial facilities into the defense program "to eliminate distress caused by loss of business" because of defense priorities.

TAX LOAD RISES FROM 2 TO 14 BILLION DOLLARS

NEW YORK, Sept. 25. — At the beginning of the World War, in 1914, federal, state and local governments were collecting no more than $2 billion a year in taxes. Today the people of the United States contribute upwards of $14.5 billion in taxes toward the cost of governing themselves and even this huge sum only partly offsets the total expenditures. The ratio of taxes to national income has risen to 20 per cent in 1940 as compared to only 6 per cent in 1913.

The ratio of expenditures to national income has ballooned to 27.5 per cent in 1940 whereas in 1913 it was but 8 per cent. Before the World War the federal government alone owed $1 billion. Today, it owes more than $50 billion and the debt in the near distant future is already estimated at $100 billion or about $3,000 for every single family in the country.

These are some of the points highlighted in Tax Facts and Figures, the first edititon of a new annual 80-page publication prepared by the Tax Foundation of New York Fred A. Eldean, executive director, states that the objective of the publication is to summarize in popular form the complete picture of United States fiscal history over the past twenty years.

NEVADA COUNTY HOSPITAL WARD TO BE BUILT

The Nevada County Board of Supervisors, at a special meeting this week, accepted the bid of Paul Jenks Grass Valley contractor, for the construction of an isolation ward addition to the Nevada County Hospital.

Jenks' bid, the lowest, was $21,987.34. Work is expected to start soon. Bob Steger, Jr., was selected by the board as inspector of the construction job.

The naming of a successor to Captain William Jaeckle, who died recently, on the board of directors for the Nevada Irrigation District, was postponed until the October meeting of the supervisors.

Grass Valley Man Fined $50 For Leaving Campfire Unattended

Francis C. Harris of 634 Le Duc Street, Grass Valley, was cited to appear before Judge Gildersleeve of Nevada City for leaving a campfire unattended in Austin Meadow in violation of Section 9159 of the Public Resources Code. Harris appeared before Judge Gildersleeve and was fined $50. The arrest and citation was issued by District Ranger Anselmo Lewis of the North Bloomfield District of the Tahoe National Forest.

In assessing this fine, Judge Gildersleeve realized the serious danger of leaving an unattended camp fire more than most people do, particularly at this time of the year when the forests are dry and burn rapidly in the severe winds of September and October. Judge Gildersleeve also points out that a little fire appearing harmless can be quickly formed into an inferno blaze, destroying the feed and forage lands and homes of people living and earning a livelihood in the mountains, as well as the forest and watershed areas.

....General directions

Always use a slanting cut. Soak flowers over night if possible. Crush and pound stems of all woody shrubs and plants such as rhododendrons, etc.

For restoring fresh flowers which have wited, place in cold water, to which has been added one half cup of vinegar to a quart of water. If the foliage has been removed from the stems immersed in the water, it is not necessary to disturb the arrangement by changing the water. Simply add water to take the place of what has evaporated and spray flowers and foliage with a fine spray daily.
